GENEVA, Feb. 29.—An armistice under which Japanese and Chinese troops will suspend hostilities at Shanghai may be agreed upon at the meeting of the League of Nations council tonight.

Prospects for an agreement suddenly brightened late this afternoon when the Chinese outlined counter-proposals to the Japanese truce terms which they will propose and the Japanese indicated that with modifications the Chinese proposals might be found acceptable.

Fire Destroyed Capitol Theatre Was Landmark Here For Many Years

One of the landmarks of the American theatrical world passed out of existence Sunday night when the Capitol theatre was entirely destroyed by fire. To a few old timers the theatre may be remembered as Shannago Hall, the name it bore when it first opened.

Shortly after the Civil war the building was erected, the first floor being used as a market house and the second as Shannago Hall. Here the stars of the post-war period displayed their genius and here the early settlers of New Castle got their theatrical fare.

Remodeled in 1873. The building was erected by R. M. Allen and was owned by a stock company. About 1873 it was remodeled and some of the huge beams that burned last night were put in then. About 1898 the building was sold at a receiver's sale and was bought by J. F. Genkinger, who owned it since.

A further remodeling was made, the theatre put on the first floor and it was then known as the Opera House. Barrett, Modjeska, Nordica, Adams, Warfield, Skinner, these were some of the names that brightened the program of the old theatre. About seven years ago Ben Burke of Pittsburgh took a long lease on the building and had it remodeled again. Several years ago the Peoples Amusement corporation bought the lease from Mr. Burke and has operated it since then.

“The theatre will not be rebuilt,” declared J. F. Genkinger today. “The walls will be torn down, the lot levelled and for a time at least the lot will be vacant, used for parking space perhaps.”

Thus passes another place of entertainment, gone the same way as the Liberty theatre, just in back of the Capitol, went a few years back, the victim of the fire demon.

Young Woman Is Killed By Bandit, Husband Wounded

Young Woman Slain Near Blairsville As She Sleeps—Bandit Asks For Money

HUSBAND OF VICTIM SUFFERS WOUNDS

(International News Service)
BLAIRSVILLE, Pa., Feb. 29.—Aroused by the wanton killing of a non-resisting woman victim, city and state police today searched for a gunman-bandit who murdered Mrs. Ruth Stewart, 23, as she slept in her home here.

Wilfred Stewart, 22, her husband, was wounded seriously by the night prowler.

The attack occurred at the filling station operated by Stewart. The couple had retired to their bedroom about midnight.

Without warning the first of three shots fired from outside. The leaden slug penetrated Stewart's side. The second bullet struck his wife, killing her instantly. The third went wild.

After the last shot, Stewart said, the gunman approached the smashed window and demanded: “Throw out your money.” Stewart managed to drag himself across the floor and from the building. When he gained the outside he found the killer had fled.

Bell Telephone Girls Stay At Their Posts Despite Fire Nearby

The work must go on—And it did go on. A corps of calm and concentrated telephone operators sat at the Bell Telephone exchange boards, efficiently and quickly connecting thousands of calls last night.

A gigantic fire was raging in a theatre just a few yards away, ladders were erected on the telephone exchange building, the sound of hurrying firemen could be heard on the roof above, a crowd of hundreds of people stood outside, tensely watching waiting for the collapse of the great walls.

Yet the work went on. At the peak of the fire a News representative entered the telephone exchange room and found it a picture of orderliness. To cope with the great emergency the night chief operator, Miss Lillian Davies and the chief operator, Mrs. Clara Molesworth were both present, as well as a squad of twenty girls, most of whom received special summons to help out. The operators who were called from their homes were rushing one by one to the boards each carrying her own mouth-piece and head phones.

Until the reserves began coming in, there were the usual number of operators at the exchange boards, numbering five. The service was possibly a little slow until sufficient girls arrived to man the boards. Quite a number of the reserves were volunteers who were off duty but who happened to be in the district so offered their aid.

W. W. Kinkel, district traffic superintendent took charge of the situation.

Sidelights On Capitol Theatre Fire

Although sparks were falling in a deluge and there was a constant possibility of the theater alongside collapsing, the City Rescue Mission workers gave not a thought to the danger and three volunteers were quietly on duty making sandwiches and coffee for the firemen. Five or six dozen sandwiches were prepared by Miss Helen Anderson, Miss Mildred Butts and Mrs. W. Greyson Coates and these, as well as large containers of steaming coffee were ready for the weary firefighters when they were relieved from duty. Ben J. Watkins, who had been home in bed, ill with the grippe, had dressed and come to the mission building to take charge of the work.

Excitement in store for them. With seven or eight other men who have been staying there regularly, they retired for the night in the sleeping quarters on the third floor, and just a short time later the roof over their heads was lit with a thousand wild red ashes.

Surprisingly few sparks fell on the Henry building directly across the street from the theater. “It is the blank brick wall and the lack of wind that saves this place,” Jack Henry said, explaining that the windowless front had been built on the theater just a few years ago and was so substantial that it probably would not collapse.

Officer Joe Greer was one of the first persons to see the fire, according to Jack Henry. Although Henry

$1,800 Loss In Fire At Ingham Home On Sunday

Blaze Which Started From Overheated Furnace Spreads Through Home

TWO FIREMEN ARE OVERCOME BY SMOKE

Fire which started from an overheated furnace, caused damage of approximately $1,800 to the home of Mrs. Caroline W. Ingham of 306 Shaw street early Sunday morning.

Two firemen, Patsy Audina and Carl White were overcome by smoke, handicapping firemen from the second ward and Pirsch truck crew and it was necessary to send in a second alarm to assist the men who were left on the job.

The first alarm was sounded at 1:55 a. m., and when the firemen arrived at the scene, they found that the furnace had overheated to such an extent that the walls of the hot air ducts had set fire to the walls and flooring, in addition to working up through the partitions between the walls from the flooring above the furnace.

Second Alarm

A dense smoke rose from old battery boxes which were piled in the cellar making the blaze a difficult one to extinguish. At 3 o'clock, when Audina and White were forced to give up the battle because of inhaling the acid smoke, a second alarm was sent in bringing out the Knox truck and No. 5. The men from No. 6 department went to Central.

Aquila Ingham, a son of Mrs. Caroline Ingham told firemen that he had been burning the battery boxes in the furnace, the pitch adding to the wood causing an intense heat which set fire to the home.

Acting Fire Chief Craig estimated the loss to the building at $1,000 and to the contents approximately $800. The blaze worked its way to the attic and spread between the floors all through the house.

It was necessary to lay 1,400 feet of hose because of the location of the home.

The city police are deserving of great praise for their work at the fire scene. They had the place roped off in no time and kept the crowd away from the immediate vicinity, where they might be injured by hot ashes and crumbling walls.

Roofs of many downtown buildings were watched because of sparks and cinders. Places as far away as

CAPITOL THEATRE PREY TO FLAMES ON SUNDAY NIGHT

Old Opera House Building On South Mercer Street Is Completely Destroyed By Fire Developing About 10:30 O'clock—Cause Of Blaze Unknown—Loss To Approximate $200,000, Partially Insured—Firemen Answer General Alarm And Prevent Blaze Spreading To Nearby Structures

Fire of undetermined origin Sunday night gutted the Capitol theatre building, South Mercer street, with a loss approximating $200,000, partially covered by insurance.

The flames were discovered at 10:25 p. m. by Policeman Joe Greer and all fire companies excepting the Seventh were called to the scene to battle the conflagration. The flames were not entirely extinguished until early today.

The building was owned by J. F. Genkinger and the theatre was operated by the Peoples Amusement Company of which Charles Freeman is the manager.

Effective work was done by the firemen in preventing the blaze spreading to adjoining buildings, for at one time during the progress of the fire it appeared that other structures were doomed. Flames were leaping nearly a hundred feet in the air, as the conflagration ate out the heart of the theatre. By surrounding the building with hose lines carried over the tops of adjoining buildings, firemen confined the big blaze to the theatre structure.

A dozen streams of water from north, south, east and west were played on the flames. Although a report gained prevalence that several firemen were burned it proved untrue.

Several thousand people watched the spectacular blaze. Traffic was blocked in South Mercer street, and other thoroughfares nearby.

For two hours after the fire started it was feared that the blaze might leap across the alley to the Rescue Mission Building, or across in the rear to the Little Hotel and buildings on South Mill street, or across the arway on the South to the Bell Telephone Company building, but firemen in a valiant battle prevented this disaster. The solid fire wall on the Bell Telephone Company building was also an aid in preventing the blaze communicating to this structure.

Wayfarers who were in the lodging room of the City Rescue Mission quickly made their exit, when the fire was discovered in the theatre, and no one was affected.

Old Building—Burns Rapidly

Due to the type of construction, when the theatre, which was formerly the Opera House, and a building of probably 75 to 100 years of age, caught fire, it was practically impossible to save the structure. The fire ate its way up through the building in record time, much of the construction being wood. It appeared that the stage end of the building blazed more rapidly at first, and then the flames spread over the center of the theater and the galleries in the rear. Fortunately there was no wind blowing, or many other downtown buildings might have been fired, as at times millions of sparks were spouting out of the seething furnace.

There seemed to be no one able to give a definite cause for the origin of the fire, other than the belief that it probably started from the heating system.

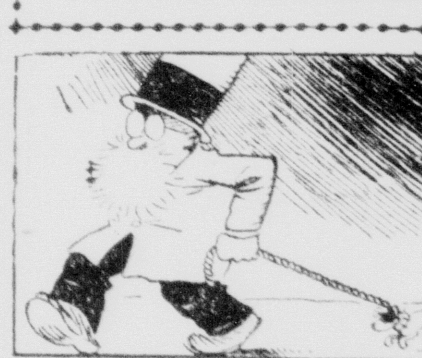

“I am very sure that the fire in the Capitol theatre started at the furnace in the cellar just under the stage,” said John Brogan, projectionist of the theater, Sunday night about midnight. “I was in the operator's booth earlier in the evening and left there at just 6:23 and there was no sign of fire there then.”

“When the fire broke out I was on North street,” said Mr. Brogan, “and following a habit of mine, when I smelled smoke in the downtown district I started on the run for the theater. When I got there the firemen had just arrived and I opened the front door for them.”

“At that time the fire was confined to the rear of the building and seemed to be working up from the cellar. The firemen caved in the stage door with an axe and started working in that end, but the flames were soon past their control.”

“I know that the fire did not start in or near the operator's booth, as

DEATH TOLL IN MINE DISASTER IS 38

Intensive Probe Of Mine Tragedy Will Be Started

Plan For Mass Funerals Of 38 Victims Of Virginia Mine Disaster

CAUSE OF BLAST IS UNDETERMINED

Rescue Workers Find Bodies Of 21 Victims In Gas Filled Workings

(International News Service)

POCAHONTAS, Va., Feb. 29—

Stricken by one of the worst major disasters of recent years, the little soft-coal community today united in preparation for a mass funeral of 38 mine workers, victims of a mysterious blast that shattered the Boiesvain

mine of the Pocahontas Fuel

Company early Saturday.

Although more than 48 hours had elapsed since the blast let go, only

21 bodies had been recovered today.

Seventeen men, still missing, undoubtedly met death either in the explosion or from poisonous fumes which spread through the workings, according to mine officials. Only seven of the trapped men were unmarried.

Those identified so far were:

Burton Brooks, Charles Yates, Ed

Saunders, negro; J. L. Phipps, Clayton Hodge, Sam White. Phipps was the father of ten children.

Rescue workers burrowed steadily

through the subterranean charnel house today with no let up in their efforts although death had emerged

the victor from a dramatic race which began in the debris-strewn interior Saturday morning.

Scores of trained men, volunteers and comrades of those trapped two and one half miles back in the basin main section, equipped themselves with gas masks and entered the shaft Saturday.

Working in relays, these men struggled wearily forward in an attempt to reach the entombed men for whom hope had first been held out. Frequently the relays were driven back by the deadly fumes.

Time and again the affected passages were battled off until the giant mine fan could sweep a clean current of air into the gas-choked sections.

Rescue work was hampered further by recurring falls of slate.

Pitiful Scene

Dawn disclosed a pitiful scene at the mine entrance when seared bodies of the victims—white and negro workers—were brought to the surface.

Stolid women, racked by dry sobs and women with tears streaming down their grimy cheeks, found their worst fears realized as state police held them back from the shaft where they had kept a vigil through two nights of cold and rain.

Legal investigating machinery swung into action as soon as the first body reached the surface. The body of the victim was left at the bottom of the shaft pending definite determination of the fate of all the men.

Plan For Probe

Coroner George W. Gillespie opened a formal inquest in an effort to ascertain the exact cause of death.

It was conceded that possibly a week will elapse before a verdict is reached.

Mine officials said origin of the mysterious blast will not be learned until rescue workers penetrate farther into the wrecked operation.

The mine was reported to be a non-gaseous operation.

Two men who fled to the surface in advance of the blast said wisps of blue-white smoke eddied through the section near where the victims were working a few minutes before the explosion occurred.

You should remember, however,

that almost every dollar the Allies

The churches of the city are dispensing with the Wednesday evening prayer services this week in order that the members of the congregations may attend the Billy Sunday meeting in the cathedral at 8 o'clock.

While the Capitol theater was ablaze Sunday evening, it brought back memories of a similar incident which occurred on a Sunday in March, year of 1926, when the Liberty theater, located on South Mill street, caught fire during the night, and burned to the ground. It will be recalled to many as the old Coliseum theater.

New Castle firemen have spent two successive sleepless nights. At 1:55 Saturday night five department men were called out by the fire at the Ingham home on Shaw street. No. 6 department going to central station, while the central crew and No. 2 department fought the blaze. Sunday night the Capitol theater fire called every department into action.

Between the hours of 9 to 12 a. m. the usual number of calls is 200.

Last night 5900 calls were made in those hours, showing a tremendous increase.

The majority of the calls came through from 10:45 p. m. to 11 p. m.

Although many inquiries in regard to the fire were received by the exchange, no information was given out.

The fact that only the two lines, both located by the burning theatre building, were interfered is explainable by the fact that the facilities are all underground.

Even when the electric lights became so dim that it was necessary to switch on the gas lamps, the girls did not hesitate in their work. The gas lamps are located in the exchange room to be used in time of great emergency.

Speed, composure, quiet efficiency were the keynotes of the long, tense night.

The little buttons of light kept jumping over the boards. Each signal was politely observed with a "Number, please?" Firemen, crowd flying sparks, tongues of fire were weaving excitedly outside.

But the work went on—

SIDELIGHTS ON THEATRE FIRE

the Allen building, over a block from the doomed theater, had necessarily to be watched.

Many of the older citizens who were present at the fire last night recalled the burning of "Park Opera House" located on the Diamond many years ago. It used to be known as the "pride of New Castle." Others were able to remember more vividly the time that flames licked the Coliseum building on South Mill street to the ground. The Coliseum was never rebuilt and the cellar and tile front walk remain as stark reminders of that great fire.

Of all times to act contrary, truck No. 1, triple combination, chose last night on South Mercer street. The driver was going to move the machine forward but the engine sputtered threateningly and seemed to be not getting sufficient gas. But two efficient mechanics came right on the scene and opened the hood and got at the trouble. They were the ex-city mechanics, Colnot and McMillin. They sent a man to a store for a big piece of hose and before long the trouble was remedied.

Heating experts said today that they do not believe that the fire in the Capitol theater originated from the heating system, especially around the boiler room. It would have been almost impossible for a fire to have started from the boiler room heating plant, they said.

One lady, watching the fire, remarked that she would pay her fire insurance premium today, for sure.

When hoses or ladders were to be moved the writer noticed that several volunteer firemen quietly gave real assistance.

Down at the City Rescue Mission, where things got "pretty hot" before the Capitol blaze subsided, the majority of the night lodgers picked up what luggage they had and left. At the very start it was feared the mission building might go, but the fire-fighters checked the flames.

Speaking of red hot sparks, one resident, hurriedly dressing in his home on Park avenue, saw a piece of burning wood fall on the lawn outside.

South Mercer street didn't furnish enough standing room for the throng of onlookers who beat it down from all sections of the city and out-of-town points last night after the fire started. The sky reflected the roaring furnace for miles and pictured a threat of the entire downtown burning.

Everybody seemed to be watching the Capitol fire last night but talking about the memorable burning of the First U. P. church, North Jefferson street, on New Year's eve in 1927.

The Pennsylvania Power company line department and the Fountain Inn certainly were kept busy answering the calls of anxious residents last night. Scores called in to ask them for information on the blaze.

Several street cars were trapped on Washington street between lines of hose, and had to stay inactive during the entire progress of the fire.

Downtown eating places did a boom business for a time about midnight, when the worst of the fire was over and the crowd began to melt away. Many stopped for a hot cup of coffee.

New Castle was fortunate last night that it had a large number of fire companies, well equipped with apparatus. With nineteen lines of hose laid to the fire, there were none too many. The firemen were enabled to entirely surround the theatre on all sides with lines of hose due to the large number of fire companies summoned.

Spectators at the blaze last night gave the firemen credit for doing effective work. It looked for a time like the fire would spread across the alleyways surrounding the building. Some of the buildings did catch fire, but the flames were promptly extinguished.

A Washington street business man asked today why council did not arrange to have the fire whistle blown. Sparks were falling all over my building on Washington street, they tell me, and I did not know that there was a fire until this morning. I think that the fire whistle should be placed on a plant where it can be blown.

On one of the billboards in front of the theater as the flames raged was an advertisement: "Fireman Save My Child".

Souvenir hunters were there, of course. They were about as numerous as autograph hunters around Babe Ruth. Pieces of the wreckage found ways to many pockets this morning.

The skylights on the Bell Telephone building were protected by heavy metal guards.

One of the most spectacular sights was the collapse of the stairways in the lobby of the theater. This sight was plainly seen and marveled at by the group of people seated inside the Hotel Henry.

Little Jackie Kearns received a badly skinned nose and an unsightly hole on the knee of his trousers from the hose on which he was standing was suddenly jerked out from under him.

Hundreds of spectators viewed the scene of the fire this morning. When daylight came, the effectiveness of the fire was revealed. Part of the brick walls was standing on one side, and the walls on the other three sides were still up. But the interior was burned out completely, hardly a charred stick of wood being seen.

Charcoal was scattered all over the downtown area in the vicinity of the ruined theatre today, as a high wind developed.

She was a daughter of Charles and Nancy Rodgers Love, who were among the early settlers in that community. When she was twelve years old she united with the Reformed Presbyterian church at Rose Point, then under the pastorate of Rev. James Blackwood.

1 To Prevent Many Colds: Whenever you feel yourself "catching cold"—that unmistakable stuffy, sneezy feeling—apply a few Vicks Nose Drops up each nostril. This will check many colds before they get beyond your nose and throat—where most colds start.

2 To Reduce the Severity of Colds: If a cold slips by these precautions . . . or strikes without warning . . . don't neglect it. At bed-time massage your throat and chest with Vicks VapoRub. During the day use Vicks Nose Drops every few hours for added comfort and relief. This gives you full 24-hour treatment.

WITH "flu" in the community, don't take chances with colds. Colds tend to pull down body resistance, and often pave the way for an attack of "flu" and its serious complications. In the present emergency, you can double your protection with Vicks Plan for better "Control-of-Colds."

Cambria County Slayer Dies In Electric Chair

Slayer Of Wife In Cambria
County Pays With Life
At Rockview

GOES TO DEATH WITHOUT MURMUR

(International News Service)
ROCKVIEW PENITENTIARY,
BELLEFONTE, Pa., Feb. 29.—Joseph Roman, Cambria county slayer, today paid with his life in Rockview's electric chair for the fatal shot he fired into his wife's body in a vengeance seeking fit of rage.
Guards strapped him into the electric chair at 7:01 o'clock this morning. At 7:02 the current sent this straining form lurching against his bonds. Four minutes later Dr. W. A. Barrett, prison physician pronounced him officially dead.
No one claimed Roman's body and he will be buried in the state's burial plot near the penitentiary.
Roman shuffled into the death chamber a glum and melancholy figure. His eyes were fixed and staring. He made no late minute comment over the decree of the state that he forfeit his life for the slaying of his wife, Martha. Roman shot and killed his wife at Ambury on May 7 last after serving a 30-day jail sentence on a charge of desertion and non-support preferred by Mrs. Roman.

AUTOS A BOON TO TAXPAYERS, IN CHICAGO AT LEAST

Motorists Find They Can Make Charge Offs On Income Tax

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Feb. 29.—Motorists who are making out their income tax returns these days will be glad to know that they have six chances to make deductions.

Registration fees paid the state, city vehicle taxes, and personal property taxes paid on an automobile, all are deductible.
The total paid out in gasoline taxes during the year, may be deducted in those states where the law has been construed to make it a consumer tax. This is the case in Illinois.

Interest on money borrowed to purchase an automobile likewise is a deductible item. In the case of financing charges, only that portion of the charges which represents actual interest on the loan, may be taken out. Additional charges for insurance may not be considered.

Uncompensated losses either by reason of damage to the taxpayer's automobile or to another person or his car or property, may be deducted, if such losses are not caused by the willful act or negligence of the taxpayer.

Police reported Plater's automobile in which he was abducted, had been partially destroyed by fire and the license plates removed.

"A man forced me to drive away when I started in the driveway of my home last night," Plater said. Plater said he was robbed of his $400 fraternal ring, and his watch. Plater revealed to police he had received two threatening telephone calls and a typewritten threat.

Speaking of those things that cause you to pause and look back into the happenings of yesterday, Mrs. I. W. Miller of 319 Sampson street, found an old sale bill that recalls memories that are known to but few residents of the city today. The sale bill was issued September 11, 1852, from the office of the New Castle Gazette and announces that the sale will be held Thursday, Oct. 7, 1852. The offerings for sale on that date include a two-story sawmill, 30 by 70 feet in size, and equipped with all necessary machinery; a one-fourth interest in the water power right of the Shenango and Neshaunock rivers subject to supplying the canal, which it is mentioned as being of little effect on the actual power involved, and one hundred building and outlots as they were designated. The bill sets forth that the purchaser will be to no expense in keeping up the dam and that there will be every facility for rafting the logs to the plant and for shipping the

The Charleston, S. C., earthquake of August 31, 1886, is considered the most violent of any recorded in the United States east of the Mississippi river.

Why do school authorities hold to such foolish and unjust practices? They ought to have enough ingenuity to work out a program which will prevent undesirable absences and still allow for practical adaptation to reasonable situations which

THE PARENT PROBLEM

School Aids Lying, Says Keen Mother

Student, If Truthful, Given
No Chance To Make Up Work

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Division Parental Education,
Cleveland College, Western Reserve University.

Not long ago I condemned in this column parents who lie for their children, particularly parents who lie to school principals to keep their children out of trouble.

Along came this letter in reply from a discriminating mother:
"Dear Dr. Myers: Just a line in defense of the parent who lies to the teacher. Last year my son, who is a student at high school, had a chance to go on a hunting trip, about 400 miles from here. He had never had a chance to go that distance from home before, and his marks at school were very good, so I told him he could go, providing he made up the work when he came back.

"When he went back to school he asked what to tell his teachers. Tell them the truth, always," I said, but his telling the truth didn't get him very far. They made him take zero in all of his studies for the week, and he wasn't given a chance to make up his work. I think a student should be given his choice of taking zero or making up the work. "This year he is going again, and you can't imagine how terribly sick he's going to be on this trip, so that he can make up his work."

Answer: Nothing in this letter detracts from the seriousness of this problem which I discussed in that article. Nevertheless, she has hit upon a new theme of grave concern to all of us parents. She cites a type of instance in which about the only sensible thing for pupil or parents or both, is to lie.

At the root of the trouble is a foolish rule on school attendance in operation in most school systems. Except for sickness of the child, or absence from school is inexcusable. In attempting to enforce such a rule all sorts of ridiculous extremes are resorted to. The assumption seems to be that parents as a group have no discretion and that they are not at all fit to decide when a child should not go to school. They are not permitted, for example, to take their child on a week-end trip or on a shopping trip or local excursion, any of which might, particularly with the adolescent child, prove of far more value morally and intellectually than twice the period of time spent in school.

But in most school systems parents who wish to have their children miss a day or two of school for such purposes must perjure themselves, their children knowing it, or let their children face unreasonable punishment. Most parents naturally do the former and write an excuse for illness.

Why do school authorities hold to such foolish and unjust practices? They ought to have enough ingenuity to work out a program which will prevent undesirable absences and still allow for practical adaptation to reasonable situations which arise. You and I know some school principals who have solved this problem.

If your school has such a rule as we already have condemned why not try to persuade the school authorities in the cause of moral education to change it.

(International News Service)
ERIE, Pa., Feb. 29.—Federal agents and city detectives working under cover for some time, have smashed a dope ring operating here for the past two years, it was announced by authorities Saturday.

Working under the direction of William Duffy, government agent from Pittsburgh, Detective Sergeant John Applebee and William Donohue and Patrolman Jack Reagan arrested a man identifying himself as Charles McKeehan, 49, and charged him with being the head of the alleged ring. Another man taken into custody identified himself as John Charlie, 33.

McKeehan, arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Enoch Flier on charges of violating the Harrison anti-narcotic act, was charged by officers with having made two illegal sales of morphine. Four other men were to be arraigned before the commissioner, police said.

According to authorities, the agents traced operations of the alleged ring through a "tip" from an unnamed woman informant.

Judge Parker May Enter Race Alone

Republican State Organization May Forsake Judge Parker For Stadfeld

Conference Held In Philadelphia, But Nothing Definite Is Decided Upon

(International News Service) PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 29.—Political doers here today were discussing the report that Judge William M. Parker of Venango county, recently appointed to the superior court bench by Gov. Gifford Pinchot, may be forced to wage a primary campaign without the support of the Republican state organization and the political interests of Allegheny and Philadelphia counties.

This report came as an aftermath of a four-hour conference of party chieftains here last night. Nothing decided.

General Edward Martin, chairman of the Republican state committee, presided at the conference. He issued a statement setting forth that nothing had been decided. But in other quarters it was learned an effort is being made to placate Allegheny county by supporting Superior Court Judge Joseph Stadfeld at the expense of Judge Parker.

Judge Stadfeld also was appointed to the appellate bench by Governor Pinchot.

It was said that Allegheny county leaders have been given several days to make up their minds whether they will support the entire organization ticket provided it carried the name of Judge Stadfeld.

May Oppose Baldwin. Leaders of the Allegheny county group for several weeks have been threatening to put into the field a candidate to oppose Senator Frank E. Baldwin of Potter county, the organization choice for auditor general.

The final decision is believed to rest with William S. Vare. A second conference, however, will be held within a few days.

Yesterday's conference was attended by William D. Mansfield, Edward E. Crawford and Walter A. Bonitz of Allegheny county; James M. Hazlett, Gen. W. W. Atterbury and Sheriff Richard Weglein of Philadelphia; besides Gen. Martin.

Lieut. Gov. Edward Shannon, State Senator John J. McClure of Delaware county, State Senator Harry B. Scott of Center county and A. Boyd Hamilton.

Police Clear Up Several Robberies Occurring Recently

Confessions Are Secured, Which Clear Up Several Existing Cases

Though the efforts of Detective John Young and Officers John Moore and Thomas Lynch, several robberies have been cleared up and already pleas of guilty have been entered in a number of the cases in which robberies were reported.

Harry Isaacs and David Barker arrested over the week end on suspicion of having been connected with the holding up of Stanley Kellish on Fulton street just off Moravia street, early Saturday morning, confessed to their part in the holdup and implicated still another young man, whom the police feel confident will be apprehended.

They were taken before Alderman L. C. Mantz this morning, where they were charged with highway robbery by Assistant County Detective B. J. Rocks. They entered pleas of guilty and will be up for sentence in March.

Ralph Campoli and Thomas Conti, the latter from Mahoningtown, were arrested Sunday, the latter being caught in Sharon, through the efforts of Detective Young and Officers Lynch and John Moore.

Following their arrest, they confessed to the officers mentioned, previously, that they had broken into Anna's Lunch on Moravia street, recently robbed and taken money from the cigarette machine by use of a key that they had in their possession, also to breaking into the Sutton Gasoline station, South Mill and Fulton streets, again using the key to unlock the cigarette machine case in that place and securing about $2.75 in cash. They also took some cigarettes. The latter robbery occurred on February 24.

Clearing up these several robberies again places the city police department in exceptionally good condition, as compared with many other police departments of the district.

Electric Ordinance Passes Council

City Is Authorized To Make Supplemental Light Contract

Council met in the city building today and adopted an ordinance which authorizes the making of a contract with the Pennsylvania Power company, which shall be supplemental to a contract heretofore made with the company, January 31, 1930, for the lighting of streets and public buildings of the city, by electricity for a period of five years.

The ordinance adopted today authorizes modification of the original contract by the changing of rates.

During a budget meeting of council Vice President Louis Round told council he would help to save the city the cost of illuminating streets and buildings. The official said he would be willing to make a new contract for this purpose and the measure was adopted today.

NET OF STEEL IS TIGHTENING

Hope To Drive Chinese Out Of Long Defended Positions In Chapei Area

By DIXON HOSTE International News Service Staff Correspondent

SHANGHAI, Feb. 29 (5:34 P. M.)—Under cover of terrific fire from the Japanese heavy long range guns in Hongkew Park, Japanese infantrymen late this afternoon began an encircling movement which threatened finally to drive the Chinese out of their long defended positions in Chapei.

The North station, which for more than a month has been the repeated target of Japanese aerial and artillery fire, also was threatened with capture as Japanese forces pressed their advance, crossing Chinese lines along the Japanese cemetery on Paoshing road and working westward to the rear of the stronghold.

Advance Two Miles Japanese headquarters announced an advance of two miles along Paoshing road.

The North station, center of Chinese resistance, appeared about to be outflanked as the Japanese lines advanced around a great fire which had been started by an aerial and artillery bombardment.

At the same time a wider encircling movement was in progress at the northern end of the battle front.

Capture Tachang Pushing on through Kiangwan, Japanese troops, according to a Japanese statement, captured Tachang, one and one-half miles west of Kiangwan on the second Chinese line of defense. Tachang was one of the important objectives of the offensive launched in the Kiangwan sector. From that village the Japanese plan to wheel southward to Chenchu, squeezing the Chinese out of Chapei.

The Japanese claim they advanced their lines two miles west of Tachang in today's fighting. If this is true, reinforcements landed Saturday night and Sunday morning undoubtedly got their baptism of fire.

No Chinese bulletins had been issued at a late hour this afternoon.

Air Mail Probe Will Be Opened

Intensive Probe Of All Phases Of Air Mail Service Will Be Conducted

MONOPOLY CHARGES WILL BE AIRD

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, Feb. 29.—Investigation of the granting of $20,000,000 worth of air mail contracts annually will be opened by the House Post Office committee tomorrow.

With charges of monopoly and favoritism being made freely by members of congress, Rep. Mead (D) of New York, chairman of the committee, said that every phase of the air mail subsidy would be investigated.

As a basis for the inquiry, Mead has introduced a bill to cancel all contracts awarded without advertising publicly, and providing for new competitive bids.

The air mail wrangle grows out of passage of the Watres bill by congress under which the postmaster-general was given almost czarlike powers to make contracts.

He is permitted not only to make contracts without bids but to extend existing contracts over a 10-year period, thus virtually shutting out competition.

Gibbons Says That Sino-Japanese Fuss Is Going To "Dogs"

Kellogg Pact Keeps Japan From Declaring War On China, Is Assertion

Kidnaping Of Chinese General By Japanese Kicks Up Rumpus

By FLOYD GIBBONS
International News Service Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1932, By International News Service)

SHANGHAI, Feb. 29.—7:57 p. m.—Hello everybody! This here Shanghai unpleasantness is rapidly going to the dogs and to the gangsters.

And it's all on account of Mr. Kellogg and that little paper he inveigled the nice Japanese boys to sign on the dotted line.

He sold them that pact by which they agreed not to declare war and to the Japanese that was just as much a sacrifice as if an American prohibitionist agreed tomorrow never again to declare America dry.

So for that reason Japan is not at war, the presumption being that her army, navy and air forces were only engaged in peaceful manoeuvres around Shanghai, but every day new kinks arise in this Kellogg tangle.

General Looks Around
Several days ago a well known Chinese general, and a West Point graduate at that, was found snooping around the Japanese zone in the international settlement.

There being no war on between the Japanese and Chinese, he of course had a perfect right to look around the Japanese lines and locate a nice ammunition dump or a well-occupied barracks in which the guns of his brigade over in Chapei could drop a couple of nice Chinese shells.

The Japanese army people seem to be awfully sensitive about Chinese army officers looking around their camp. They just don't like it. It sort of makes 'em feel uncomfortable in the daytime and disturbs their sleep at night.

So they grabbed General Wang Keng and his suitcase full of Chinese maps, codes and plans. But they have no right to because this is not war and you can't take prisoners of war unless you are right out and out playing war.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: General Wang, officer of the Staff of General Tsai Ting-Kai, was seized in the lobby of the Astor House after he had fled from Japanese sentries who pursued him when he walked into the ground of the Japanese consulate, which he mistook for the American consulate, which moved several months ago.)

Is Kept Prisoner
General Wang pointed that out to the Japanese but they couldn't see it his way at all and so they are keeping him somewhere if they have not killed him, and the rest of the Chinese army is protesting to all of the foreign consuls in Shanghai about protection of Chinese in the international settlement.

The Chinese claim Wang's capture by the Japanese is plain illegal kidnaping and right there is where this Shanghai unpleasantness is slipping down the line to gangdom.

The Chinese threaten reprisals, not officially, of course, because that would not be diplomatic, but unofficially it's being noised about and without pride that China and particularly Shanghai is the habitat of some of the most daring and capable bands of professional kidnapers that this world has ever seen.

Clever Kidnapers
Some Chinese even claim that kidnaping as a business was invented in China long before chopsticks and pigtailed and of course if the Japanese boys think they can come in and compete with the native industry, well, Chinese merchants and men of wealth in Shanghai welcome this new direction for the efforts of Chinese kidnapers.

Local magnates are tired of being held for ransom and having to employ personal armies to guard them night and day. Many of them are provided with bullet-proof automobiles with special devices working from the rear seat by which the owner can make his car immovable and set off a loud screaming siren at the same time, all this to outwit kidnapers ever on the watch for victims.

Is Sad Affair
Since the Japanese kidnaping of General Wang, the local Al Capones and Legs' Diamonds are rapidly changing in public esteem from criminals to patriots who will be candidates for decorations and national acclaim and possible public office as soon as they kidnap General Uyeda or Admiral Nomura or any Japanese officials of high rank.

Grizzled old professional soldiers of other nations now here are shedding bitter tears in their tiffin plates. They hold it shameful that their honorable profession of arms has sunk so low that war has to be fought without declarations and then has to be waged with the assistance of high-binders and kidnapers.

Mr. Kellogg sure started something.

CHINESE MAY AGREE ON TRUCE WITH JAPANESE

will read to the council the following conditions on which China will agree to halt the fighting:

First—As a preliminary stage to putting an armistice into effect, the Chinese troops will retire four miles from Shanghai.

Second—The Japanese will withdraw their forces into the international settlement.

Third—Chinese troops will be withdrawn ten miles from Shanghai and Japanese troops will embark and leave the city.

The belief was expressed by optimistic league representatives that a formula could be found whereby the combined American, British, French and Italian forces at Shanghai would intervene between the contending forces as the agreement was being carried through its successive stages and also that the Chinese would not object to the continued presence of the usual number of Japanese marine guards in the settlement.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 29.—Quo Tai-Chi, representing the Chinese foreign office, arrived here from Nanjing tonight to represent the Nationalist government in any further negotiations with the Japanese for a cessation of hostilities.

Quo Tai-Chi brought with him instructions formulated at a conference last night. He would not say last night would be resumed until he had conferred with other Chinese officials.

LONDON, Feb. 29.—"Some progress was made toward an understanding" when Japanese and Chinese representatives conferred aboard a British warship at Shanghai last night, the British foreign office was advised today by the Shanghai consulate.

Admiral Sir Howard Kelly offered the use of his flagship, the Kent, as a meeting place when he learned Dr. Wellington Koo and Japanese Consul General Mural were eager for a peace conference.

LONDON, Feb. 29.—Japanese Consul General Mural today warned the Chinese that unless they immediately cease concentrating troops in the Shanghai area, the Japanese will bomb all railway lines leading to Shanghai from Woosung, Nanking and Hangchow, according to an exchange telegraph dispatch from Shanghai.

The Japanese, Mural warned, will destroy the tracks of all roads over which Chinese reinforcements might be brought into the Shanghai area. The dispatch also reported that Chinese military headquarters claimed a counterattack in today's fighting recovered two miles of lost ground, but did not state in what sector.

The Chinese announce they are still holding all their positions around Woosung despite a fierce daylong bombardment by four Japanese cruisers.

Russo-Japanese War Clouds Loom

Soviet Russia Massing Army Of 100,000 Along Manchurian And Korean Borders

WAR IS INEVITABLE JAP OFFICIAL SAYS

(International News Service)
TOKYO, Feb. 29.—In the eyes of the people of Soviet Russia, war with Japan is inevitable, Japanese Consul Yamaguchi at Vladivostok cabled Foreign Minister Kenkichi Yoshida today.

Yamaguchi revealed that approximately 100,000 Soviet troops are now massed along the Manchurian and Korean borders, while two red army corps, consisting of 20,000 men, have been concentrated at Vladivostok.

Day and night movement of foodstuffs and war materials to the border is under way, Yamaguchi declared.

The Russo-Japanese clash is regarded as inevitable, Yamaguchi cabled either because of Japan's encroachment in Manchuria or as a result of the long-standing dispute between Russia and Japan over fishery rights on Soviet waters.

Yamaguchi declared that the Soviets have constructed three new forts along the border. He confirmed recent reports of conversion of Russian factories into war material plants, declaring that an iodine factory just over the border has been equipped for the manufacture of poison gas.

War Anticipated
Yamaguchi's message to the Japanese foreign office contained dispatches carried by International News Service from Berlin, Warsaw and Tokyo during the last two weeks revealing the extent of military preparations in Soviet Russia in anticipation of trouble with Japan.

Last week James R. Young, International News Service correspondent at Tokyo, interviewed a European traveler on his arrival in Tokyo from Vladivostok. Although he declined use of his name, the traveler was such a reliable source of information that his revelations were cabled to New York.

He disclosed that American and European voyagers were being refused visas to Vladivostok and other Siberian cities in order that Soviet troop movements and military preparations might be kept secret, and revealed in detail the tension felt in Vladivostok and elsewhere over Japan's military activities.

Troops Massing
He reported heavy troop concentration in Vladivostok and on the bordered and pointed out that Russian authorities were so nervous that "a rowboat equipped with an outboard motor and flying a Japanese flag could easily capture Vladivostok."

Recent International News Service dispatches from Warsaw and Berlin revealed that the Soviets were converting their factories and plants to war purposes. The great agricultural machinery plant at Siewmashstroy has been converted into a munitions factory, one of the messages disclosed.

Seek Use Of Local Stone In Building Of Postoffice Here

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Special Washington Correspondent Of The New Castle News

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 29.—When bids on New Castle's new post office are called for, specifications will permit the use of either local stone or stone of outside origin.

This fact was definitely established Saturday afternoon by Representative J. Howard Swick after a visit to the Treasury Office. Mr. Swick took with him to the Department communications from various leaders of New Castle praising the qualities of local stone and was assured that bidders on the construction job would be permitted to submit bids upon the base of locally produced stone.

Some time ago Congressman Swick took up with Treasury Department officials the question of using local stone in the new building. The Department in turn referred the matter to the Eckles Company, New Castle architects drawing the plans for the structure, and last week Eckles reported back the use of local stone would not be practical.

Several leaders of New Castle, however, telegraphed and wrote to Mr. Swick that they were confident local stone could be satisfactorily used and it was these communications which the Congressman carried to the Treasury on Saturday.

Mr. Swick received communications pleading on behalf of local stone from the Mayor of New Castle, the Chamber of Commerce, the Board of the Mayor's Unemployment Relief Committee, Lewis G. Gen-king, member of the Council; Thomas Hartman, president of the Lawrence Savings and Trust Company; Crawford Hoyt, president of the National Bank of Lawrence County and David H. Kay, president of the National Stone Company of New Castle.

Under the decision of the Treasury Department, specifications for the new post office will be written so as to permit bidders to base their offers either upon stone quarried in the vicinity of New Castle or in other sections of the country. Then after the bids have been submitted Treasury experts will examine samples of the New Castle stone to determine its acceptability.

In his letter to Congressman Swick, Mr. Pearson stated that he personally had examined the plans of the new building and was satisfied that at least one half dozen ledges of local stone can provide stone of sufficient dimensions to satisfy the specifications. In referring to the availability and suitability of local stone, he reported that he had personally visited several different ledges of suitable stone whose workability was proven through the testing of samples on a machine designed for that purpose.

Local stone is being used in the construction of post offices at Rochester and Youngstown and will probably be used in the new Ellwood City post office as well.

Unless unexpected delays occur, the Treasury Department expects to call for bids on the Ellwood Building within the next ten weeks.

theater was a solid mass of flames. The walls of the theatre commenced to bulge. All hope of saving the play-house was lost.

Firemen atop the Rescue Mission building played water on the theatre. Water was also directed against the walls of the Rescue Mission, Little Hotel and Telephone buildings to keep them from taking fire.

At 11:30 p. m. a large blanket of flame shot from the theatre into the sky. A ladder was run up to the front top of the Bell company building in South Mercer street.

Seven firemen, armed with a hose crawled quickly up the aerial. Police cleared South Mercer street of spectators. Police feared the front wall of the theatre might collapse.

Drive Spectators Away
The lines of water hurled from Apple Way, Market Alley, South Mercer street and from the roofs of the Rescue Mission and Bell Telephone buildings checked the flames.

Within an hour the flames were conquered but not entirely extinct. In place of the licking tongues, smoke flew in clouds.

Wall Collapses
At 1:30 a. m. the north wall started to bulge as the bricks had cooled off. As Assistant Chief Stockman expected there was a crackling noise when the walls came down.

The report was a thunderous. However, no firemen were in the alley and none was injured. Smoke fluttered from the thousands of brick and fears were expressed the front wall might fall.

The front wall, substantial having been built only a few years ago stood the ravages of the fire and the torrential flood of water from several lines of hose.

Fire Under Control
Meanwhile with the fire practically extinct, firemen remained at work. The spectacular aspect of the fire having disappeared, fire fans began to melt away.

At two o'clock the fire was under control and some of the firemen who had been battling the blaze since 10:25 p. m. left for their station houses.

Charles Freeman said he was at a loss to know what had caused the fire. He said only $10,000 insurance in furnishings was in effect.

Asked as to the Peoples Amusement company's loss, he placed the amount at $100,000, for the organ, sound equipment and theatre furnishings.

He said he had been with members of the Ahepa, a Greek society at Beaver Falls and saw the flames while enroute along the Wampum highway to New Castle.

"We saw the flames. I thought it was the Lawrence garage on fire. As we drove into New Castle and got near the blaze I exclaimed to my companions:

"Marousis Saves Films.
"My... it's the Capitol."
"How do you suppose the fire occurred?" he was asked.
"I don't know," responded Freeman.

Asked if a company which had played at the Capitol last week had conducted a rehearsal Sunday night, Freeman and Marousis replied in the negative.

Marousis said they had removed their wardrobe Saturday.

Marousis told how he had rushed with policemen and firemen into the burning theater and rescued the films.

He also said that several hundred dollars receipts of Saturday's shows remained in the safe and had not been recovered.

carried would not meet but a small proportion of the loss.

The building destroyed had been remodeled a number of times, and was being used as a combination talking picture and vaudeville theatre.

Built In 1865
It will be interesting to learn that the Capitol Theatre was originally erected in 1865 and that the contractor was the late James M. Mayne, one of the city's early prominent contractors. As originally constructed it was a market house with a hall on the second floor. It was remodelled several times before taking the form and appearance it had prior to the fire of last night.

This morning, through the mayor and the courtesy of the management of the local plant of the Lehigh Portland Cement company, a battery and necessary connections for dynamiting the older and fire damaged walls of the building were secured and the walls will be blown down during the day.

In Theatre At 8:30
Frank Lennox, caretaker of the boilers at the theater said today he was in the Capitol theater last evening and started a fire in the boilers which were located in a cement pit. Lennox said he left the building about 8:30. He did not go to any other part of the building, he declared.

Lennox said that prior, or about 6:30 p. m. his wife, son Clyde, a neighbor woman and he had gone for a ride to Ellwood City. His son drove the automobile. On the return trip to the city he decided to go to the theater.

"We have instructions to come around and see how things are. I got out of the automobile and opened the cellar door. I gave my son a key to go to the Penn and pump out water as we have a little difficulty there and have to pump water.

"I went to the boiler and found the boiler out. I started a fire in the boiler. It was a very small fire. The boilers are in a cement pit," said Lennox. "If any of the fire fell out it could not start a conflagration."

"This has been my practice during cool weather so there would be steam water in the morning. I looked out the door, went home about 8:30 p. m. and went to bed. My son told me he had been informed by a neighbor that the Capitol was on fire."

Lennox went to the theater, reaching the theater after the firemen. He kept looking there he said and wanted to save them. He did not see any fire in the cellar but noticed fire dropping down arounds a stairway running to the first floor or stage.

He said the fire appeared to him to be in the rear of the first floor and not above the boilers in the cellar. Lennox said he did not go to this floor.

When Claire Stockman, assistant fire chief was asked if any investigation would be conducted he replied that an inquiry possibly would be conducted by insurance companies representatives. It is also probable that investigators from the fire bureau of the State police may also make an investigation.

This morning bare walls of the building were standing on three sides, while parts of the fourth wall, that along the north side of the theater. Preparations were being made to raze the dangerous walls at once.

Quit Sending Slips At High

No Response Of Parents Causes Discontinuance Of Unsatisfactory Slips

For the first time in some years the practice of sending unsatisfactory slips to parents of students not doing good work will be discontinued throughout the second semester at the Senior high school. This announcement was made this morning.

This move will not save out down expenses but will save several days work prior to the issuing of reports. The main reason for discontinuing this practice, Principal F. L. Orth said this morning, was due to the fact that the parents who received these slips did not respond. Out of 500 parents who received the blanks only a few looked into the matter. This is the major reason for cutting this out, it was announced.

This is just an experiment which will be tried this semester. The practice may be continued again next year. The first reports of the second semester will be issued March 11. The parents of high school pupils are asked to be on the look out for the reports and look into the matter if their children are not doing good work.

Pennsy Railroaders Honor R. W. Hamilton On His Retirement

The clock ticked off three hours of time too fast Saturday evening for a banquet crowd of Pennsylvania railroad men to do honor justly to a retired official here who finished his 41-year-long job on February 1 with a colorful, lasting record left behind him.

But in those three short hours some 70 fellow workers, officials and friends of former Assistant Road Foreman of Engines R. W. Hamilton—who gets "Major" as a salutation—always paid him a testimonial that his remaining years will never permit to be forgotten. The dinner and program occurred in The Castleton.

"The Major" sat with his closest friends and the dinner leaders at a speakers' table up front, and surrounded with a fitting speech when the toastmaster, E. A. Fenton, the Pennsylvania's supervising agent, prevailed upon him after 14 others had extolled him.

Mr. Hamilton, who entered the Pennsy service on July 17, 1891, climbed his way through different engine jobs to the post of assistant road foreman which he held at retirement. Especially did he concentrate his studies and attention on the study of airbrake equipment and airbrake processes, and when pension time came, gained the reputation as one of the foremost experts on that subject on the Pennsylvania lines.

Program Opens

Opening the program Saturday night, following the delicious dinner that was served, was J. H. McIlvenny, chairman of the engine-men's committee and one of Mr. Hamilton's best friends.

Mr. McIlvenny contributed a few remarks at the beginning and speedily introduced Mr. Fenton as the toastmaster.

All through the dinner the guests had enjoyed the orchestral music played by six members of the Senior High school orchestra. Their time was donated for the dinner.

Toastmaster Fenton directed the banquet train like an able dispatcher, and there were no derailments, no open switches, and no airbrake troubles during the entire evening's program.

He called upon many of the Erie & Ashabula division's officials and many who worked with Mr. Hamilton or lived near him to pay their tribute. This they did, each recounting something a bit different about the man whom it became known as "a real man, neighbor, and teacher as well as a railroad engineer who always finished his job well."

Superintendent H. T. Prushour, ill at his home, sent word through Mr. Fenton to convey his compliments to the man the dinner was honoring.

Extend Tributes

Then the following officials and friends of the honored guest spoke: Trainmaster F. J. Perry, R. W. Roberts, James "Deacon" Yates, Division Operator J. C. Hanrahan, Harry E. Rhea, Edward M. Fisher, assistant road foreman of engines; who worked with Mr. Hamilton; Harry E. Hays, road foreman of engines; Enginehouse Foreman R. E. O'Donnell, Master Mechanic W. O. Teufel, Division Engineer, J. S. Gillum; James Palmer, retired Pennsy man living in Erie; D. J. M. Hamilton, Oakmont, Pa., the honored guest's brother; Conemaugh division surgeon; Ralph Hamilton, one of Mr. Hamilton's sons, and Mr. McIlvenny, the chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements. Climaxing the oral tributes was McIlvenny's presentation of a beautiful Hamilton watch to Mr. Hamilton and an artistically designed draft of resolutions adopted by the engine-men's committee of the Pennsylvania railroad in the New Castle district.

The resolutions conveyed the engine-men's sincerest wish to Mr. Hamilton for a long and happy life he so truly deserves.

Three of his sons, Robert, Lee, and Ralph, were present to see the railroaders praise their "dad" and Ralph helped them go about it. He spoke for the sons when called upon.

At the Hamilton home on Madison avenue, Seventh ward, the men who had gathered to honor Mr. Hamilton had sent a floral bouquet as a remembrance for Mrs. Hamilton.

Toastmaster Fenton, like every speaker, praised "Major" for his service in the company's airbrake studies. It was said that few employees in the E. & A. engine service had been unfortunate as to miss Mr. Hamilton's tutelage.

Chairman McIlvenny pronounced the dinner-meeting adjourned after the toastmaster called upon the guests to stand and give three husky cheers for Road Foreman of Engines T. L. Bailey, now recuperating from a long illness in the Florida climes. Mr. Bailey has been granted a leave from the service.

Deserving credit for the masterful way in which the testimonial was planned were Mr. McIlvenny, the chairman, and the following committeemen: C. B. Grassel, H. M. Rea, J. C. Hanrahan, W. O. Teufel and Edward M. Fisher.

Those Present

Employees and officials of the E. & A. division and guests present to do Mr. Hamilton honor were:

Why Dessert For Dinner? Asks Doctor

Digestibility Of Various Sweets Cited By Clenning

By LOGAN CLENNING, M. D.

Whoever conceived of the ground plan of a meal is unknown to history, or at least to me. But he did his work well. Every civilized country has the same architecture for a full meal:

Soup, to whet the appetite;
Meat, vegetables and bread, for the solid needs;
Salad, for vitamins and rough-

age;
Dessert—for what?

The unknown designer of this plan did not have a definite idea of what each of his courses did in a scientific way. Such meals were in established use long before the science of nutrition was born. The plan must have been the result of trial and error. It achieved success in its final form, as given above, and was satisfactory because it conformed to the principles of science even if these principles were still unknown. The function each course performs is only my own interpretation in the light of recent science.

Why dessert? It must have some function, fulfill some need. It is too generally popular to be worthless. No matter what other parts of the meal are skimped we usually are offered dessert.

Yet it usually is considered indigestible and fattening and generally objectionable. There is, however, one conceivable function of desserts which is useful—being sweets they kill the appetite. At the finish of the meal they stop the desire for nibbling. And to that extent, fattening as they are, a small serving of dessert, if eaten before the appetite of the middle-aged is satisfied, may even tend to keep weight down.

As to their digestibility, there is not much difference between desserts and other parts of the meal. Angel's food and devil's food—digestion does not seem to be on the side of the angels. Angel's food cake remains considerably longer in the stomach than devil's food cake and develops a higher amount of acid in the gastric juice.

As to their digestibility, there is not much difference between puddings and other parts of the meal. Custard pies are more digestible than fruit pies.

Puddings are handled more rapidly than pies but develop more acidity. Strawberry shortcake is a bad actor. It hangs around the stomach longer than beef, or pork, or pies, or puddings, and it takes a lot of juice to reduce it. The stomach sort of rolls up its sleeves and prepares for a hard afternoon when it sees strawberry shortcake coming.

It should be remembered, however, that desserts are likely to produce discomfort in people with acid dyspepsia or stomach ulcer.

All these things are comparative within very narrow limits. The comforting thing is that the stomach can digest nearly anything, even when it is handicapped by disease. Napoleon said of his soldiers, "They grumble, but they march." Even if it grumbles, the stomach works.

Several Accidents Are Reported To The Police Over The Week End

William M. Mr. Schreiber reported that she was within three feet of his machine when he saw her and he was unable to prevent the accident, although he stopped quickly. She was picked up by Mr. Schreiber and taken to a physician, where it was found that she had apparently escaped serious injury. She was able to return to her home.

Earl P. Ross, 1019 Beckford street, was en route east on Moody avenue at Mercer street Saturday, when a car bearing Pennsylvania license 20667, going south on Mercer street and making a left turn onto Moody avenue, failed to observe the stop sign regulation and ran into his machine. Some damage was done.

Bertram Bishop, New Wilmington, R. D. No. 1, was en route north on North Mill street at Falls street Saturday and following the machine of F. J. Middleton, 602 Court street, which made a left turn into a service station without signal of the intention, turning to the right before starting to the left, according to Mr. Bishop, who turned to the left to avoid the other machine and they came together, causing some damage. Mr. Middleton in his report claims he made a signal of his intention. Mrs. Catherine Bishop sustained an injury of the right arm below the elbow.

MILLBURN

The annual oyster supper of Millburn and Mill Run school districts was held at Millburn Grange Hall on February 25 and was successful in every way. About one hundred and fifty were present and included not only an unusually large representation of the present residents of the two districts but former patrons of the schools from Ellwood City, Greenville and other points were in attendance and enjoyed the bountiful supper and the social hour which followed. The affair was in charge of a committee consisting of W. G. Christley, Chas. Holliday, Leland Pearson, and Ernest Wimer and their wives and they are to be congratulated on its success. The following were appointed as a committee for next year: S. O. Drake, Fred Metzgar, G. Cleve Blake, and J. P. Hart.

Owing to sickness in the community the meeting of Millburn Grange had a very small attendance and the Washington program planned by the lecturers could not be carried out as arranged. Two very interesting talks on our first president were given, however, and another unit of the mathematical circle given and a treat of cherry pie closed the evening. Indian Run Grange will

Chinese Order Military Burial For Late Flier

Chinese Nationalist Government Will Bury Late Robert M. Short With High Honors

OFFICIAL REPORT OF DEATH GIVEN

(International News Service)
NANKING, Feb. 29.—The Chinese national government has ordered that the body of Robert M. Short, American aviator killed in a battle with Japanese fliers over Soochow last Monday, be buried with highest military honors.

An official communique issued here declared that Short lost his way while flying with a Chinese squadron, encountered the Japanese airplanes and sacrificed his life "to uphold the cause of humanity and justice."

Following is the text of the communique:
"Short served with the Chinese aviation forces as an instructor. After recently seeing Japanese airplanes bomb unfortified Shanghai, killing numerous women and children, Short expressed the determination to sacrifice his life by upholding the cause of humanity and justice."

Chinese Grateful
"Flying with a Chinese squadron on February 12, Short lost his way. But seeing three Japanese airplanes bombing Soochow, Short engaged them single-handed.
"Three additional Japanese pursuit planes attacked him from above. Short's airplane crashed, resulting in his death, but Short's machine-gun fire killed one Japanese private.
"The Chinese government is highly grateful for Short's service in making the supreme sacrifice for a nation he genuinely loved and befriended.
"The Chinese government has ordered a proper burial of Short's remains with highest honors."

READY TO GO

New Castle, Pa.
Feb. 24, 1932.
The New Castle News,
N. Mercer St., City.

Your issue of February 20th contained a full page advertisement whose heading is "Let's Go—America!" We wish to acquaint the people of New Castle and vicinity with the fact that the plumbing and heating industries of New Castle have had their toes on the mark for several months.

The journeyman plumbers voluntarily reduced their wages $20 per week. The master plumbers have reduced their margin of profit so low that the greater part of the time it is non-existent.

There has not been a time in the last 10 years when the dollar would buy as much, in our line, as at the present time. With very few exceptions, every person engaged in any way, in our line of work, are not alone citizens, but property owners, who are vitally interested in the prosperity of our city.

We also strongly advocate the spending of the New Castle dollar in New Castle, that the continued buying power of that or those dollars be not lost to our citizens. Let's Go, New Castle.

Hoover Will Run For Re-Election As Dry Candidate

Senator Borah Makes Prediction Regarding Presidency Race This Year

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 29.—President Hoover will run for re-election as a dry, Senator Borah (R) of Idaho, predicted Saturday.

Borah, one of the Republican party's outstanding prohibition leaders, evinced little concern in the movement, launched by the New Jersey Republicans, for a wet plank in the 1932 Republican platform.

"The Republican platform on prohibition this year," said Borah, "will be in substance what it was before. It's not a question so much what the platform amounts to as what the individual stands for. We have a dry candidate."

Borah also declared he anticipated no hostilities between Russia and Japan in the Orient. He has maintained ever since the start of Japan's invasion of Manchuria that Russia would avoid war with the far eastern empire.

Means of World Domination Offered U. S.

American Invention Operated by Remote Control Would Wipe Out Entire Cities 1,000 Miles Distant—Terrible Power for Good or Evil.

NEW YORK DESTROYED BY REMOTE CONTROL
LESTER P. BARLOW GRINDVELL MATTHEWS

A sure means of curbing the war-like tendencies of the entire world and placing control of the entire earth in the grasp of the United States is now accessible to America, according to Lester P. Barlow, American inventor and called the "bomb wizard" of the World War. Barlow is in Washington to offer his latest and most terrible invention to the Government. It is an agency operated by remote control, which Barlow claims is potent enough to wipe entire cities off the map at a range of 1,000 miles. The units of this destructive force may be either high explosive, incendiary or lethal gas, or a combination of all three. Though, for obvious reasons, only the most meagre details of the device are known to anyone but the inventor, it is believed that it bears no resemblance to the "Death Ray" invention of Grindvell Matthews, English scientist. Barlow does not seek any remuneration for his creation. All he asks is that Congress give him a hearing and allow him to demonstrate his invention. However, he warns that if the U. S. fails to accept the device he will place it at the disposal of Premier Mussolini of Italy or Dictator Stalin of Russia.

MY NEW YORK BY JAMES ASWELL

By Central Press
NEW YORK, Feb. 29.—This is written on a portable typewriter. After years of pounding on the large standard machines, I feel almost that it is committing assault to punch the keyboard of this frantic midge. For one thing, it gives the impression of working so hard—twice as conscientiously as the guy who is flailing it. Actually, the machine's performance is quite indistinguishable from that of its big brother. But in effect it gulps down polysyllables with the brave earnestness of a small boy surrounding his daily helping of spinach.
To poets whose script is illegible and who flinch from the crass mechanism of the standard typewriter, I recommend a portable. In fact, I would not be surprised to learn that the trouble with today's column down to here, was simply the wistful yearning of the keys to lift into a sonnet.

Mother Comes To Aid Of Karns City Man For Butler Death

BUTLER, Pa., Feb. 29.—Eugene S. O'Hara, 23, charged with involuntary manslaughter in the death of Geo. J. Randig, 47, of Butler on Main St. Thursday night when the latter was hit by O'Hara's car, is free today under $1,500 bond furnished by his mother, Mrs. Sarah C. O'Hara of Karns City. At a coroner's inquest held yesterday by Coroner M. E. Headland, several witnesses testified that a front tire on the O'Hara car collapsed just before it struck Randig, who was crossing the street at an intersection. In addition to the manslaughter charge, to be presented to the grand jury, Police Lieutenant Edward L. Schultz has filed information that O'Hara was driving his car under the influence of liquor.

Fascists Plan To Seize Finnish Capital At Helsingfors, Is Reported

(International News Service)
HELSINGFORS, Finland, Feb. 29.—A Fascist revolt, planned with the intention of seizing the national government, spread throughout Finland today, seriously threatening the safety of the capital.
With between five and ten thousand armed rebels massed at three points not far from Helsingfors, and with their numbers growing hourly, government leaders were extremely apprehensive.

The crack troops of the national army were called out to guard all the highways and railway lines into Helsingfors to bar entrance to Fascists, and heavy artillery pieces were moved into strategic positions throughout the capital.
There were threats of bloodshed, the rebel army having obtained rifles, machine-guns, and even some artillery.

County Commissioners Merely Decide To Let Ohioans Know Where County Seat Is

Many From Youngstown, Akron And Cleveland Seek To Evade Five-Day Filing

(International News Service) MERCER, Pa., Feb. 29.—Mercer county officials are not advertising the county as a "Gretna Green" for Ohioans seeking to evade the five-day marriage law which went into effect in the sister state January 1. Nothing of the sort. They are only advertising that the Mercer county courthouse is in Mercer, not in Sharon. Clerk of Courts Marvin explained it all today after reports went out the county commissioners are advertising the county as a "marriage mill."

Seek To Evade Law The Ohio law, Loutschier pointed out, requires would-be newlyweds to file a five-day notice of their intention to wed. A lot of Ohioans don't want to wait five days, and a lot don't want to file a notice. Since the law became operative, about 150 marriage licenses have been issued in the county to Ohio residents.

But many of those on the matrimonial road, Loutschier said, become confused over location of the county seat and drive to Sharon, only to find they must come over to Mercer for a license. So the commissioners authorized the clerk of courts to advertise in Youngstown newspapers, and others in Akron and Cleveland, kindly pointing out the courthouse and county seat are at Mercer.

If Ohioans want to figure out marriage licenses are issued and marriages performed without five days' wait at the Pennsylvania county seat, that's up to them.

Bob Short's Last Stunt Climaxed Dare-Devil Life

American Flier's Fatal Dogfight With Six Japanese Planes Ended Thrilling Career in Blaze of Glory.

Though stunned by the tragic news of his death, townsfolk of Robert Short, young flying soldier of fortune, are thrilled with admiration at the courage he displayed in the face of terrific odds when he went down in a blaze of glory before the combined attack of six Japanese planes in Soochow, China. Young Bob is well remembered in Tacoma, Washington, where he was born, went to school and first learned how to fly. Bob was cashiered from the U. S. Army Air Corps when, as a cadet at March Field, Cal., he disobeyed flying rules and engaged in spectacular stunts. His flair for taking chances also lost him the position of assistant manager of Tacoma Airport. Short went to China in 1931 and became a military flight instructor to the Chinese Air Corps at Nanking. The fight which cost him his life took place over Soochow, where, a few days previously, he had brought down a Jap bomber. Japanese authorities are making a formal protest to the U. S. Government, asking that American fliers be restrained from fighting for the Chinese forces. Incidentally, Bert Hall, an American soldier of fortune, is one of the head men of the Chinese air corps. He is known as General Chang. But as Hall has been a recognized member of the Chinese Army since long before the trouble with Japan, his participation in the fracas will not cause any diplomatic disturbances.

Legion Reports That 107,507 Men Are Put On Jobs By Campaign

(International News Service) NEW YORK, Feb. 29.—With 7,364 more persons reported placed in jobs in the latest tabulations in the drive of the united action for employment campaign, the grand total since the inception of the movement today reached 107,507.

More than 500 communities have taken part in the effort to "put 1,000,000 unemployed to work." Colonel William J. Donovan, former United States attorney general, was drafted to represent the organization in New York state.

He accepted the post at a meeting of employment chairmen of six eastern states held here. Donovan undertook the task of organizing employment committees in 800 communities, besides directing activities already under way.

The national drive is sponsored by the American Legion, the American Federation of Labor, the legion auxiliary and the Association of National Advertisers. The employment committee at DeCatur, Ala., informed headquarters employers there gave assurances they would keep their workers employed full time. Permanent positions promised by employers for at least one year were obtained in San Francisco, Los Angeles, Denver, Washington, D. C., Greensboro, N. C., Norfolk, Va., and Birdsboro, Pa.

Water Pressure Found Adequate

Water Used In Fighting Last Night's Blaze Reduces Pressure But Little

In spite of the number of lines of hose which were played on the Capitol theatre blaze last evening, the water pressure in the downtown district never got below 100 pounds. Superintendent H. B. Richards stated this morning.

The eight-million gallon reservoir which feeds the downtown district was hardly lowered by the strain, he stated, as it would take 20 lines of hose playing for four hours continuously to use up approximately a million gallons of water.

The ordinary water usage is about four million gallons per day, this amount being pumped into the reservoirs to maintain the constant level. If the pumps were down entirely, there would be a normal two-day supply on hand, Mr. Richards explained.

In an emergency, the pumps could handle 19 million gallons per day, so that New Castle residents need never fear of a water shortage in case of a big fire. In fact, the water company could supply the constant demand could be used by the local fire department with its present equipment.

As soon as the water in the reservoir begins to drop, the pumps speed up to take care of the strain, and the big reservoir contains practically 8,000,000 gallons at all times.

The strain of last night's fire was scarcely noticeable, but a lot of water was used up in quenching the flames.

As soon as the water was turned onto the blaze last night, the cordoning pressure gauged the variation, there being two distinct curves, one between 10:30 and midnight and one shortly afterwards.

Crippled Woman Is Attacked By Honolulu Native

Racial Feeling Running High Again At Result Of Fiendish Attack

POLICE ARREST NATIVE SUSPECT

Wives Of U. S. Naval Men Molested By Man, Woman's Screams Bring Attack

(International News Service) HONOLULU, T. H., Feb. 29.—Racial passions flamed anew today in Honolulu, "Paradise of the Pacific." Another white woman was criminally attacked by a native.

Mrs. Kathleen Hope, 25, crippled wife of John N. Hope, a machinist mate on the U. S. Submarine S-28, was robbed and attacked in her home while her husband was enroute to San Pedro, Cal., with his vessel. Native Arrested.

Police arrested an Oriental, but Mrs. Hope was unable to positively identify him as he had worn a mask.

She said, however, her assailant, either was a Japanese or a Chinese as his mask had fallen from his face before he left her beach home.

Mrs. Hope said she was alone in her home when the man entered and demanded money. She gave him $4 and he left demanding that she remain quiet for 30 minutes.

Woman Not Beaten. The bandit went next door to the home of R. D. Curry, a naval electrician. Mrs. Curry was alone. While the bandit was terrorizing Mrs. Curry, Mrs. Hope screamed and the man returned to her home, tied her, gagged her with silk stockings and attacked her.

Mrs. Curry and Mrs. Hope notified police and at the emergency hospital physicians said Mrs. Hope had not been beaten.

"I was too terrified to scream when the bandit entered the house," Mrs. Hope said. "He pointed a pistol at me and demanded all the money in the house. I had four paper dollars."

Marander Returns. "He took them and warned me not to warn anyone for 30 minutes. Thinking, however, he had left the neighborhood I screamed to Mrs. Curry, my next door neighbor, in a few minutes, to my horror the same man came back, tied and gagged me and put a blindfold over my eyes. . . . His mask fell down and I knew he was either a Japanese or a Chinese."

Mrs. Hope said her assailant was about 30 years old and had told her he knew her husband was at sea and that Mrs. Curry's husband was at work in the navy yard.

Mrs. Curry said the woman the bandit was unable to find money in her home he ate several pieces of candy he found on the dining room table—then hurried back to the Hope home when he heard Mrs. Hope scream.

Honolulu Scoured. Police scoured Honolulu to round up all suspicious characters. Navy officials were taking no part, announcing their policy would be to allow Honolulu police to handle the situation.

Admiral Yates Stirling, commander of Pearl Harbor navy yards, today declined to comment on the attack of Mrs. Hope.

"Until all facts are ascertained," Admiral Stirling said, "I prefer to withhold personal views. The navy is co-operating with local authorities."

Following the attack on Mrs. Thalia Massie, 30, bride of a naval officer, Admiral Stirling created a worldwide stir when he declared that Honolulu was unsafe for women.

Mrs. Massie's husband, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, her mother, Mrs. Grace Fortescue, and two naval enlisted men, E. J. Lord and Albert Jones, are to go on trial March 10 for the "Honor Slaying" of a native accused of participating in the attack on the young matron.

Ellwood High Closes Floor Season Tonight

Rochester Invades Ellwood To Wind Up Season For Locals

ELLWOOD CITY, Feb. 29.—Ellwood high hopes to end its floor season with an impressive victory when Rochester invades the Tube City this evening for the final game on the Ellwood High schedule. It is a return contest and the locals are favored to repeat their previous victory.

Coach Todd Lloyd has taken every precaution to prevent an upset. He has paced his boys through an intensive drill since last Thursday in preparation for the invasion of Rochester. The locals had an interesting time in their previous meeting in the valley town. The blue and white capped an 18-17 win at that time and the Taylor men are coming here tonight with every hope of avenging that defeat.

Ellwood was rather handicapped in their first encounter by Rochester's small handbox court, and just barely managed to get away with a victory. But Rochester is not the same team that the locals had met. Since then the Taylor men have proved to be dangerous. They made a very impressive showing against New Castle recently.

Tangle Results From Confession In Buffalo Jail

Claim Made And Denied That Tony Bell Framed Accomplice In Donohue Murder

CLAIMS ENMITY WITH BLEDSOE

Four Prisoners In Buffalo Will Testify That Bell Faked His Confession

(International News Service) BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 29.—Anthony W. Bell, former Fayette county detective, faked a confession involving others to the murder of John Donohue in order to frame an enemy and get $2,500 reward, it was charged today.

James B. McKenna, attorney, said he had an affidavit from a client in county jail stating that Bell was overheard talking of his frame-up plot.

Bell, awaiting trial here on an extortion charge, signed a confession charging that he, R. C. Bledsoe, Cosmo Stangoni and a fourth man had shot and killed Donohue, Uniontown, Pa., bootlegger, in July, 1929.

Bell was tried on a murder charge shortly after the killing but was acquitted. Even though he has confessed, he cannot be tried for the murder again due to constitutional grounds.

Bledsoe and Stangoni have been arrested. Bell is said by Attorney McKenna to have told a cell-mate that he wanted to "get" Bledsoe because he was an enemy and also to collect the reward offered for solution of the murder.

Related By Four. McKenna would not reveal the name of the man signing the affidavit but he claimed there were four prisoners who had talked with Bell who would testify in Bledsoe's favor.

McKenna said one of the prisoners was Irish and departed for his home in Oil City, Pa., another, had been sent to the county penitentiary for nine months, the third had been deported to Canada and the fourth man was still in jail.

Fourth Man Nabbed. UNIONTOWN, Pa., Feb. 29.—District Attorney W. K. Newell today filed an information charging murder against Carmello Sturla as the fourth man involved in the racket killings of Jack Donohue near here in 1929.

Sturla and two men now under arrest, Robert C. Bledsoe and Cosmo Stangoni, were named by Tony Bell, former Fayette county detective, as participants in the slaying for which Bell, who now admits his guilt, was tried and acquitted last year.

Bell vigorously denied reports from the up-state city, where he had been held on another charge, was a hoax. He declared he could prove "every word of it."

Chinese To Send More Troops To Shanghai Area

"Japanese Threat Will Go Unheeded," Says Wang Chin-Wei, Today

GENERAL CHIANG IS AT NANKING

Threats To Terrorize Civilian Population Of China Will Be Answered

Copyright, 1932, By International News Service

NANKING, Feb. 29.—"The Chinese government is determined to dispatch reinforcements to Shanghai despite Japanese threats," Wang Chin-Wei, acting president of the Republic, told International News Service today in an exclusive statement.

Wang, who succeeded Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek, was interviewed on a train enroute to Nanking from Lovang where many of the government officers were moved after Japanese destroyers bombed Nanking.

"Japanese threats to attack inland cities by plane and to shell our Yangtze river ports if we do not stop sending troops to Shanghai will pass unheeded," said the government's civilian leader.

"These threats were made to terrorize the civilian population but they will have no such effect."

Will Rush Troops. "Unless the Japanese cease attacking our troops at Shanghai we shall dispatch every available man to the scene of the fighting."

Asked if Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek, generalissimo of the nationalist government, would go to Shanghai to take personal command, Wang replied:

"No, at least not for the present. Gen. Chiang will remain in Nanking and direct military operations. He is rushing his finest troops, including the National Guards, the first, eighth, ninth and forty-seventh divisions to Shanghai."

COLLEGE TOWN HIGH WINS BY 10 POINTS

(Special To The News)
BESSEMER, Pa., Feb. 29.—Although each of the teams in the circuit has one more game to play, New Wilmington high virtually captured the Lawrence County Class B floor crown here Saturday when Bessemer high was defeated 22 to 12. New Wilmington has won seven and dropped two games. Their closest rival is East Brook with six victories and three defeats. Union and Shenango are deadlocked for third place and Bessemer and Mt. While they did not hold New Wilmington even in scoring they came within four points of doing so.

Changed System
At the end of the first half when Bessemer had used a zone defense and Wilmington had played man-to-man, the score was 7 to 1. In the second half Bessemer shifted to a man-to-man play. From then on it was a fierce contest.

However, while Bessemer scored 11 additional points and New Wilmington answered 15 more, the good passing and accurate basket shooting of New Wilmington could not be overcome. Bessemer was also out-shot from the foul line.

New Castle Quint In Tourney Again

New Castle Has Been In W. P. I. A. L. Tournament For Five Years

With the New Castle-Butler sectional game down in the annals, the New Castle high basketball team now starts preparation for its opening game in the W. P. I. A. L. tournament at Pittsburgh, Friday night. Coach Phil Bridenbaugh will present his quintet against the winner of the Leetsdale-Zelienople tilt.

These two teams battle Tuesday night on the Beaver Falls floor. Like other years, the tournament competitors are the cream of high schools in Western Pennsylvania.

Last year New Castle defeated Ambridge and Monessen in two of the fastest games of the tourney and then dropped to Duquesne, 21-17. Just how far the local passers will get this year is unknown.

Since 1926, the Red and Black has represented its section with the exception of 1929 when New Castle was suspended from the league.

Only once, in 1927 has New Castle topped the coveted urn. This season there are many who concede the Lawrence county a good chance of going to the finals. This however is a vague statement.

Against Butler high, Friday night the New Castle five looked the part of a smooth combination. The entire five played impressive basketball. If Coach Bridenbaugh's team plays like it did Friday night, at Pittsburgh its going to take a mighty clever team to eliminate the Tim City charges. This afternoon the section three champs start preparation for the game. The drills for the first two days will be light.

CARNEGIE MUSEUM SENIOR EMPLOYED

Two fast games are scheduled for the Carnegie auditorium tonight. In the opening tilt the Safety Five will oppose the Jefferson A. C. 8:00 o'clock. The feature game will bring together the Carnegie juniors and the Senior employed of the Y. M. C. A. league.

REYNOLDS A. C. WINS
Reynolds A. C. won from Rotary troop 20 to 11 Saturday afternoon. Kirkwood and Wyman made four of the 11 points for the losers. Clausen featured for the winners.

First Baptists B, St. Michaels Win

St. Johns Fall Easy Prey To Baptists B, 52 To 14

TEMPLE ISRAEL BEATS EPWORTH

St. Michaels and First Baptists and Sacred Hearts are deadlocked for the leadership of B loop, Church basketball league as the result of the former two teams' victories at the Y Saturday night. Sacred Hearts were idle.

St. Michaels beat St. Pohns Luthernans 52 to 14 and First Baptists handed a set back to Temple Israel 32 to 17. In the only A division game Temple Israel A won from Epworth M. E. 19 to 13.

St. Johns and St. Michaels tilt was one-sided. Pittway, George and Smith were the only Lutherans able to find the basket. Twenty-five field goals scored 50 of St. Michaels 52 points.

First Baptists however, did not have things quite so easy as St. Michaels. While Temple Israel B were beaten the contest was tighter than the score would indicate.

First Baptists scored 10 points to eight for Temple Israel in the first half. C. Smith, Lewellyn and Hnat accounted for field baskets, foul points being made by Whitman and C. Smith.

Shouts Three Points
Solomon got a chance to shoot from the foul line six times in the first half and he made three of the tries good while H. Rosenberg earned two points from five attempts.

The points from the foul line added to field goals registered by Solomon who played right forward for Temple Israel kept them in close pursuit of the First Baptists.

In the second half First Baptists played faster and their passing attack was better. Temple Israel had difficulty penetrating First Baptists defense.

As a result First Baptists hooped 10 field goals, five of which were made by Lewellyn at left forward. He added to this point gaining with two successful throws from the foul line.

Solomon scored three points in the second half for Temple Israel and field baskets by H. Rosenberg and Margolis sent Temple Israel's score to 17 while First Baptists were making their total 32.

Fouls Furnished Points
Epworth M. E. and Temple Israel in the only A game scored two field baskets each in the first half but fouls called on Epworth M. E. gave Temple Israel an outshot.

With the score eight to six the teams went into the second half and Temple Israel outshot Epworth. Their passing and basket accuracy excelled.

As the result six field goals and a foul point gave them 13 more points while seven for Epworth came from three field baskets and a point from the foul line.

H. Wyman, guard was the outstanding player for Epworth out while Herchman at center played a neat game for the Temple Israel.

As British Speedster Set New Mark

Traveling faster than any automobile ever did before, Sir Malcolm Campbell's racing car, Bluebird, is shown as it flashed over the Sandy speedway at Daytona Beach, Fla., to shatter his own world's record and set a new speed mark of 253.968 miles an hour. The British racer actually hurled the big car over the course at the rate of 267.459 miles an hour for one run with the wind, but the wind resistance on the return trip cut his speed to 241. Inset is Sir Malcolm acknowledging the vociferous acclaim of the spectators to his breath-taking dash after he had completed the record run.

Three Tri-State Games This Week

Bethany At Westminster
Tonight Will Start Off Important Battles

ALLEGHENY-GROVERS TO PLAY TUESDAY

Tri-State conference games listed this week finds three games listed. A non-league game, but an important one in the district will be played at Grove City, Pa., by Allegheny and Grove City college quintets.

The Westminster Titans will go into action again this evening when they tackle Bethany college of Bethany, West Virginia, at the New Wilmington floor. The Titans are the ranking favorites in this game, due to the mediocre showing that the Bisons have made.

Another important battle takes place tonight at Beaver Falls, Pa., where Geneva will entertain the Dukes of Duquesne. The Dukes won the game played earlier in the season at Pittsburgh and the Geneva boys are anxious for atonement.

Geneva At Thiel
Tomorrow night Geneva will invade Thiel for a Tri-State conference engagement. This should be a good game. The Lutherans play a fine brand of basketball on their own court. Allegheny had a tough time taking the Lutherans.

Wednesday night Waynesburg will go down to Bethany, West Virginia for a Tri-State game, and that concludes the dish for the Tri-State, for the week.

Other games that are attractive this week are West Virginia at Carnegie Tech Tuesday night, and W. & J. at Pitt on Thursday.

KANGS BEAT I. W. W.
South Hill Kangs conquered the I. W. W. 23 to 19, Saturday on St. Michaels floor. Kendra caged two field goals and four foul points for the victors.

Gene Venzke Is Back In School

Sensational Track Star Returns To School Books At Pottstown, Pa.

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 29.—Gene Venzke, back to his high school books today at Pottstown, Pa., after raising havoc with the track record books this winter, probably has reserved his greatest feat for the Olympics at Los Angeles next summer.

True, the 23-year-old marvel did more than his share in cracking the world indoor marks while winning seven straight races during the indoor season. But the fact that he finished his amazing races just breezing, due to lack of close competition, bolsters the pleasing conviction that the young man's fastest races are still ahead of him.

The Department of Agriculture operates five experimental stations to promote the agricultural development of Alaska.

Westminister's Athletic Council at New Wilmington tonight, will play the Bethany-Westminister Tri-State Conference floor game, will take action on two proposed post-season games for the Titan team following the closing of the regular season with Grove City.

The fans of the district have clamored for a Duquesne-Westminister tilt, and also the Ohio Conference champions Mt. Union would like to tackle the Western Pennsylvania giants. No official invitations have been sent out relative to either game, but the agitation is strong. Definite action on the two games will be taken tonight.

HARPSTER TO HOLD SPRING GRID PERIOD

BEAVER FALLS, Feb. 29.—Howard Harpster, newly signed grid mentor at Geneva College, will hold a spring football workout for his 1932 Covenanters prospects between April 23 and May 1. It is the intention to have the griders report in track suits and under Harpster's guidance become acquainted with the recent changes in the football rules.

Bob Latera, spokesman for Lawrence Conti and the men affiliated with the amateur tourney, said today that none of the winners of last Monday night would be in the ring tonight. Instead 20 new faces from various places will fling punches.

Tonight's calendar:

Titans To Play Bethany In Conference Game On Home Floor This Evening

Fans Have But Two More
Chances To See Titans
In Action

Sickness Hits Titan Quintet

Several Players And Coach
Have Been Sick Over
Week End

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Feb. 29.—Fans of the district will have but two more opportunities to see the 1932 edition of Coach John Lawther's Westminster college basketball team in action this year. Both the two games remaining on the Titan schedule are to be played on the home court, and banner crowds are expected.

Bethany, a Tri-State conference rival, will furnish the opposition tonight. While the Titans are in the cellar in the conference race, they played very well against Thiel last Friday night, forcing the Lutherans into an overtime game.

Tonight's game with Bethany will find the Titans a bit weak, due to the fact that sickness has kept a number of the players out of action since last week. It is not likely that Sijlander, Kocher, Newton, or Blamer will be able to start. As a result, Douglass, Sweeney, Wilhelm, Hamas, Young and Healy will have to carry on for the blue and white.

A victory tonight will give Westminster its third Tri-State conference championship in basketball in as many seasons. The defeat of Geneva at the hands of Grove City on Friday night practically eliminated the Covenanters from the championship race.

Westminster now leads the conference with seven victories and only one defeat. Geneva is second with six victories and three defeats. Waynesburg with four victories and four defeats, if third.

Following tonight's game with Bethany, the Titans will close the season on Tuesday, March 8 against Grove City, the only district team to defeat Westminster this season. This contest, to be played at New Wilmington, will attract many fans as indicated by the large number of reservations for tickets already in.

Probable lineups for tonight's game:

Westminster	Bethany
Douglass	Francis
Sweeney	Frieder
Blamer	Diesey
Riley	Dupke
Wilhelm	Clarke

Game starts at 8:15.

TWO OTHER GAMES ON Y. M. C. A. COURT

Sacred Hearts, tied with First Baptists and St. Michaels for the leadership of B loop in the Church League, will oppose Central Christians in one of the four league games at the Y. tonight.

First Christians and St. Johns, tied for second place in the same division, are sure to go up or down the percentage column. These teams in the B division are about evenly matched.

Highland U. P. will oppose Presbyterians of Wampum in an A League clash. As the Presbyterians are tied with First Baptists for first place in the loop, Highland will try to score an upset.
